Southern Rural Centleman.

This valuable journal comes to us regularly every week, containing a vast amount of original and value to the agricultural community. We else on my route, hope it has a circulation equal to its merits. It should be largely patronized in Mississippi. It is published by J. L. Davis, at Grenaila, Miss., at $2 50 per annum.

A Southern Literary Magazine.

Withave received the August number of "Tax ACRORA," a monthly periodical, edited by Henry B. Folk, and published by H. B. Folk & Co., at Memphis, Tenn., at $2 00 a year. The present number contains 64 pages; the typography and paper are excellent, and it is embellished with a well executed and tasteful fashion-plate. We commend it to the patronage of our people.

The Speaking, Yesterday.

MR. WATSON, Bell-Everett, and Capt. BLYTTE. Democrat, had a regular discussion, yesterday, at the Court House in Oxford. The former led off in a speech of an honr and a-half, and the same time was occupied by his adversary in reply. Mr. Watson rejoined in half an hour, and Capt. Blythe, following him in a speech of tifteen minutes, concluded the discussion. We were compelled to make up our report in haste, in order to put our paper to press, and are obliged, therefore, to be brief in our comments upon what the speakers said.

Mr. Watson is a wily politician of the old Federal school, and a lawyer of considerable experience and ability, skilled in the arts of sophistry, endowed with the "gift of gab" to a wearisome extent, and having a "power of face" which enables him to preserve his gravity while he announces such preposterous ideas as no other man -in Mississippi-would think of advocating. He admitted, in effect, that he could not successfully assail the principles of Democracy. We say, "in effect," because, had he believed it possible to succeed in such an assault, we cannot believe that he would not have attempted it. He talked about the corruption of men in office, and about many other things which have nothing to do with the question now before the country, and, finally, bestriding his favorite "Union' hobby, he put the poor spavined creature through quiet when Lincoln should be elected, and submit like good children, and content themselves with scatching. Admitting that Bell and Everett had each some very awkward passages in their respective records, he seemed to think nevertheless, that they were sound enough for him, and, therefore, for any body else. His auditors listened to him like men who, on a cold day, were result in its overthrow. wrapped in blankets wrung out of ice-water.

Capt. Blythe was quite ill when he took his utation as a brilliant and effective orator. Reing under the necessity of following Mr. Watson through all the windings and turnings of his sinuous course, in order to expose his sophisms and artifices, he was less connected than he would otherwise have been, until his "reply" was completed; but, at that point, he took up the questions involved in the present canvass, and, in a clear, masterly and eloquent argument, demonstrated the correctness of that great Dem- soon join Wm. Loyd Garrison in the cry of ocratic principle, of the equality of the States, which constitutes the basis of our present struggle. We would like to go on, but we have no room, to-day, for further remarks. y

W How Veracious.

We observed, a few days since, in a Southern Douglas paper, a letter from a correspondent who professed to have travelled extensively in the three States of Illinois, Indiana, and Ohio, and to be well acquainted with the political opinions of the people of those States. Douglas, ac everything before him; while Breckinridge would only receive the support of that limited class of men who hold Federal offices there. For the Oxford Intelligencer. Politics in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, and Iowa.

BURIANGTON, IOWA, I have now been to the farthest limit of my visit, and am now part of the way on my return.

According to promise, I will give you an account of politics, as I found them in the various Northern States I have visited.

I cotered Ohio at Cincinnati, and, after co ing up as far as Yellow Springs, went across into central Indiana, About Cincinnati there general rains, the last of which fell on the 10th is a general mixture, all parties being numerously represented. As you go un into the State, however, everything is swallowed up in Abolitionism and Lincolnism. If there ever was any salt in the State, it has lost its savor; for Republicanism reigns from the Governor at the head of the State department, to the "dog pelters" in the streets of their cities. So powerless are their opponents, and so completely do they have things their own way, that it loses all interest, and and useful matter, which is of peculiar interest I heard less discussion here than anywhere

I saw a few Breekinridge men, however, even in this State, and they were all in favor of running a "straight ticket," sceming to feel that nothing could be gained by compromise, and preferring to stand on their own

Passing into Indiana, I found things very lifferent. The majority of the persons saw were Democrats, and they were confident of carrying the State. I attended their club meetings, and was at a large Douglas ratification meeting. Here I saw representatives from nearly every county, and from their report, almost the entire democracy will go for Douglas. I met with several Breekinridge and Bell men, who said they were goon our fourth page this week. We do this the ling to vote for Douglas as the only chance of they can. The Democracy are nearer a unit than in las' own State, I suppose it is natural they should be. I heard a good many, however, taking the firm stand of equal rights in all the territories, in opposition to the doctrine of "Squatter Sovereignty," which has not so much of the "Popular" as it once had.

But we hear all over the North of Douglas men who are going to vote for Lincoln, in order to defeat Breekinridge, As an evidence of this, we quote the following paragraph from the Harrisburg (Penn.) Telegroph, a Republican paper, which feels very happy over the prospect of getting these traitors:
The Stampede Commences,—The evidences of a determination on the part of the Douglas men to vote for Lincoln, and thus kill two birds with one stone, are multiplying on every hand Scores of men who have for years acted with the Democratic party, are daily ranging themselves under the banner of Lincoln and Hamlin, deter mined to crush out the Southern disunionists and the Northern traitors who fraternize with them. It is conceded, and justly, too, that every vote east for Douglas in the free States, is a vote for Breckinridge or old Joe Lane, just in the proportion that it is effective in carrying the elec-on into Congress.

The honest supporters of Mr. Douglas would hundred times prefer the election of Lincoln to that of either Breckinridge or old Joe Lane.— This is the first bird to be killed, by all manner of means. On the other hand, a large number of them are burning with the desire to give a blow to the South in return for the dastardly treatment they have received during the pas se years, and particularly at the Charles and Baltimore Conventions. They see no other way half so effectual in accomplishing their re enge as voting Lincoln into the White House The country is swarming with this class of Douglas men, and among them may be counted some of the most efficient politicians of that per-

From the Natchez Free Trader. It will not be Sectional.

The Buffalo Commercial Advertiser, the home organ of Mr. Fillmore, and a very ably conducted paper, is now supporting Lincoln and Hamlin. In the last number, it attempts to refute the Republicans. It is compelled to admit that it is sectional now, but it maintains that it will bevass, last year, for Senator, exciting as it was, come national after the election. Must be not then have a party at the South, and is it not ready made to his hand in the Union organization?
